Dear Stone Harbor Friends,

Social distancing is an idea that would be novel to the girls above, but it is an unfortunate reality today. But anyone who has studied history knows that hard times are not a new thing in America. The way of the past is the way of the future. Pull together (six feet apart) and do what you can to help your neighbor through the hard times.

We at the museum are intent on doing our part. We have closed the museum and cancelled our Saturday talks. We are looking to share our collection through our Facebook page and our new website. The 1930's diary of Tiny Tim and some vintage movie clips were a big hit with our followers. The response from all of you in the virtual world is our silver lining. We will continue to work behind the scenes to share images and stories to remind you of the Stone Harbor you love.

A huge thank you to those of you who generously supported us in 2019. That support, combined with continued funding from the Borough of Stone Harbor, sponsorship from our business community, the Cape May County Freeholders, and grants from our state division of Tourism, Culture & Heritage will help us continue to operate in 2020. With the uncertain economic times right now, we hope you will continue to support us in our mission if you can. We will still be here for you and will reopen our doors to the public as soon as we are cleared to do so.

In the meantime, as most of us have been sheltered at home, you can also support us by going into your attic and finding that shoebox of old photos or memories that have been tucked away for safe-keeping. Share them with us on our new website. Write a story of your memories of Stone Harbor while you have the time to reflect. Most of our collection comes from residents or visitors like you who have graciously shared with us so that we can keep that history alive.

Please join us as we walk into an uncertain future with a knowledge of the past firmly in our hearts. ♥

The Great Stone Harbor Art and Writing Contest.

Stuck at Home?
Come join our contest.

The Stone Harbor Museum is hosting two contests for young and old alike; an art contest, and a writing contest. Let your heart and your creativity guide your hand to create images and memories that will be celebrated this year and archived for the future.

There will be 100$ prizes for the four winners and each entry will be posted on our website for all to enjoy. The whole contest will be hosted and judged digitally, but the best of the images and writing will be displayed at the museum on July 29th.

Check out our website at "stoneharbormuseum.org" for details about entering.
